An award-winning observation from within a Swedish immigration detention centre for rejected asylum seekers.

SYNOPSIS

Detained is an absorbing observation from within a Swedish immigration detention centre for rejected asylum seekers. The film follows detainees and staff over the course of a summer. A mother separated from her children faces deportation, a young man waits for his life to begin, and staff members struggle with the impersonal bureaucracy required of their job.

With great sensibility to its characters and environment, Detained depicts the silent psychological horror faced by those held in modern detention centres and questions this crucial, global phenomenon.

DIRECTORS

SHAON CHAKRABORTY

Shaon Chakraborty, born in Bangladesh 1982, is a filmmaker with her background in fine arts and photography. Detained is her first documentary film, to which she also contributes as a still photographer. Chakraborty graduated from prestigious Nordic School of Photography in February 2010. Since then she has been working as a freelance photo journalist and photographer for newspapers and magazines. Her work has been published in the art book "This Must be the Place" 2010, and shown in several exhibitions in Sweden and abroad such as Triekfabriken, Allmänna galleriet, Galleri Kontrast, Planket, The Photo Museum in Sundsvall and Centro Cultural Recoleta in Buenos Aires. Parallel to the work with Detained, Chakraborty is working on a longer photography project in Bangladesh concerning the experience of rediscovering the past.

ANNA PERSSON

Anna Persson, born in 1981 in Sweden, graduated from the Documentary Directing programme at Stockholm Academy of Dramatic Arts in June 2011 following studies in Political Science, Gender studies, Photography and Feature Journalism. During her film studies she directed short and mid-length documentaries portraying people in different roles and situations in the European migration system. With her degree film, The Case Officer, she gained access to the Swedish Migration Board and told the story of a young case officer grappling with whether or not to send an asylum seeking family back to Bosnia. Detained is Persson's feature debut, which further establishes her as a director providing new perspectives on one of the most burning human issue of today. She has also co-directed the documentary I am Dublin for the Swedish production company Story AB which won Best Swedish Documentary at Tempo Documentary Festival 2015.
